Thanks to all who shared photographs published in this magazine.

Dear Friends,

What do five Hamden Hall alumni spanning six decades have in common? Among many things, their remarkable achievements. In May, Hamden Hall formally recognized five graduates of the school, ranging in years from 1940 to 1998, with an Alumni Achievement Award. Thanks to the recently established Hamden Hall Alumni Association Council, the nomination process was managed and the awards dinner planned. Working with Head of School Bob Izzo, the council created a memorable evening attended by family and friends, including alumni, faculty, and trustees. Beyond the well-earned recognition of our honorees, the evening produced another outcome—the establishment of the Alumni Association Scholarship Fund. The scholarship honors all alumni by offering a means to support our current students—the future graduates of Hamden Hall. We thank those who donated to the scholarship fund, and to all of our generous constituents who have supported other fundraising efforts at our school. From the Golf & Tennis Tournament, to our Annual Fund, from purchasing SCRIP shopping cards, to making honorary and memorial tribute gifts, so many of you demonstrated your commitment to our school in a myriad of ways. We acknowledge and thank you in our Annual Report of Giving, published in this edition of the magazine and online. As we look ahead and celebrate our school’s 100th anniversary this year, we are excited about the events that are about to unfold. These include a Centennial Gala on Saturday, April 21, and the 2012 Alumni Achievement Awards on Friday, Oct. 12. The awards program will be showcased during the 2012 Reunion Centennial Celebration. We will keep you posted about these events on our website, through Facebook and Twitter, and in print. We hope that you will keep us posted too! We welcome your updates and appreciate your stories. We look forward to seeing you at upcoming celebrations as we commemorate our school’s history and set on a course for the next 100 years! In the meantime, enjoy some of the highlights of the past year at Hamden Hall in the pages that follow. On behalf of the entire staff of the Office of Development and Alumni Relations, thanks to all of you for all you do for Hamden Hall!

Sincerely

A Message from Head of School Bob Izzo

As this magazine goes to press, Hamden Hall is in the midst of its most exciting time in our history. In 2012, we celebrate our 100th anniversary, and the entire school community is abuzz with how we are marking this momentous occasion. We kicked off our centennial on the first day of school this fall. Our entire student body joined in the celebration on Sept. 6, donning T-shirts proclaiming: Hamden Hall 100 Years Strong! Next on our agenda is a formal gala to be held April 21. A team of parents is overseeing this exciting event that includes the unveiling of our impressive Hamden Hall 100th Anniversary coffee table book. The book outlines our school’s first century and touches upon some of the people, places, and events that have contributed to our extraordinary legacy. We are fortunate to have many archival photographs and written accounts showcased in this book. But the real “gems” in telling Hamden Hall’s story are our alumni who recount their memorable days “under the pines.” Celebrating their lives and accomplishments makes all of us very proud, and it is in this spirit that we formally recognized the achievements of some of our alumni in May at the 2011 Alumni Achievement Awards. We honored five distinguished graduates spanning six decades. Among them was Dr. Richard Lyman 1940, president emeritus of Stanford University and former president of the Rockefeller Foundation, who flew in from Palo Alto, Calif., to accept his honor. But the honor was all ours! As the “senior” recipient, Dr. Lyman was the last to speak—and speak he did! He told the audience that all he accomplished in his life could be traced back to his foundation of learning at Hamden Hall. We were humbled by his remarks, and we were privileged to have him join us at the podium. Our other recipients represented men and women who made their mark in health, education, art, environmental sustainability, and journalism. Each speaker was lauded with an introduction by impressive alumni who have gained success in medicine, science, business, finance, and reporting. As we congratulate all those who received 2011 awards, we also look ahead to our future—our current students and our most recent graduates. The Hon. Judge John Mercer Walker Jr., 2011 commencement speaker, asked the students to take a good look at each other, advising them that their graduation may, in fact, be the last time they would all be together. However, in true Hamden Hall tradition, many of these “alumni” will find their paths crossing again and again, for Hamden Hallers come “back home” and give back to their alma mater in many different ways. It’s our past, combined with our present and the hopes for our future, that constitutes the vibrancy of Hamden Hall. One hundred years may have passed, but in the words of so many alumni and former faculty who have returned to celebrate the successes of our school today, “as much as things have changed, the core values of our school have remained the same.” And in the end, it’s our spirit of community that makes the difference—a spirit we have joyfully celebrated for 100 years.
Head of School Bob Izzo is pleased to announce that Will Goetzmann, Ph.D. has been elected to the Hamden Hall Board of Trustees. Will is the father of Zoe Goetzmann 2012, and Will attended Hamden Hall for kindergarten before moving to Texas with his family. Will, who earned a doctorate at Yale University, is an Edwin J. Beinecke Professor of Finance and Management Studies at Yale, and he is also the director of the school’s International Center for Finance. Will is an expert on a diverse range of investments, including stocks, mutual funds, real estate, and paintings. His research topics include forecasting stock markets, selecting mutual fund managers, housing as investment, and the risk and return of art. Will’s work has been featured in The Wall Street Journal, Business Week, The New York Times, The Economist, Forbes, and Art and Auction. He has a background in arts and media management. As a documentary filmmaker, he has written and co-produced programs for Nova and the American Masters series, including a profile of artist Thomas Eakins. A former director of Denver’s Museum of Western Art, Will co-authored The Origins of Value: The Financial Innovations that Created Modern Capital Markets.
The spotlight was on in May as Hamden Hall recognized five alumni spanning six decades for their achievements in a broad range of fields. From the president emeritus of Stanford University who graduated from Hamden Hall in 1940, to the “young alum” from 1998 who writes for The New York Times, the evening highlighted the accomplishments of our distinguished honorees.

Dr. Lyman joined Stanford in 1958 and held positions as professor of history, associate dean of the School of Humanities and Sciences, and vice president and provost before serving as university president from 1970 to 1980. From 1980 to 1988, he was president of the Rockefeller Foundation, and from 1988 to his retirement in 1991, he was director of the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies.

Joy and her husband, Herbert, founded Medical Education for South African Blacks (MESAB) in 1985, a nonprofit organization... dedicated to improving access to quality healthcare for historically disadvantaged South Africans by providing financial aid and training for black health care professionals.

Jill is director of the Institute for Contemporary Art in Boston and the driving force behind the museum’s fundraising initiatives. Jill has been acknowledged for her contributions to changing the landscape of art in Boston.

Bun is owner of Miya’s Sushi restaurant in New Haven, Conn. He is an ecological activist who works to increase awareness in sustainable food practices, especially as they relate to fishing practices. Bun is an award-winning chef who has merged many cultures through his food.

Michael is a staff writer at The New York Times. When he was honored in May, Michael was covering the politics and personalities of New York government. In September, he was moved to the national desk for the 2012 Republican primary, covering Mitt Romney. Before joining The New York Times in 2005, Michael worked at The Washington Post, NBC News, and The Miami Herald. He is a 2002 graduate of Yale University.

AWARDS ON WEBSITE

The Alumni Achievement Awards were presented at a dinner held at the Beckerman Athletic Center. Video excerpts from their presentations are posted on our website (www.hamdenhall.org).
Michael was introduced by his classmate Ross Douthat 1998, author of two books, a former editor of The Atlantic magazine, and current writer of an Op-Ed column for The New York Times.

Bun was lauded by his brother, Hamden Hall alumnus Ted Lai 1990, who stepped in for actor Dylan Bruno 1990 who was unable to attend the event. Ted is director of SunTrust Robinson Humphrey Capital Markets, the Investment Banking Division of SunTrust Bank in Atlanta.

Jordan Hadelman 1972 did the honors for Jill. Jordan is a member of the Hamden Hall Board of Trustees, and he is retired as CEO and chairman of Witt/Kieffer, the nation’s ninth largest executive search firm.

Joy was praised by three classmates. They included Natalie Jaffe 1947 who made the introduction at the dinner, and classmates Lloyd Ayer 1947 and Carroll Nutile Burke 1947 who sent their best wishes via video.

Dr. David Cugell 1940 also videotaped his congratulations to Dr. Lyman. Dr. Cugell lives in Chicago where he and his wife both recently retired as professors, researchers, and physicians at Northwestern University.

To honor the award winners and to support the endeavors and successes of our current students, the future alumni of Hamden Hall, an Alumni Association Scholarship Fund has been established. The Alumni Association councilors are now planning the 2012 Alumni Achievement Awards to be presented Friday, Oct. 12, 2012, during Reunion & Homecoming weekend. To learn more about how to submit a nomination or to make a donation to the scholarship fund, contact Jodi Amatulli in the Office of Development at 203.752.2619 or email jamatulli@hamdenhall.org.

The Hamden Hall Alumni Council is accepting nominations for the 2012 Alumni Achievement Awards. The awards will be presented on Friday, Oct. 12, 2012, during the 2012 Reunion Centennial Celebration. The dinner program will culminate Hamden Hall’s observance of its 100th anniversary.

Alumni Achievement Awards will be presented to graduates of the school who have distinguished themselves in some particular manner worthy of recognition. Their achievements or contributions may be spread across a diverse array of endeavors, with recognition in categories such as community service, society and world affairs, and professional excellence.

The recipients uphold the highest standards and values in their pursuits, are passionate about their chosen undertaking, and are role models who inspire others. Through their individual efforts, they have affected the lives of many others, and they are indispensable “cornerstones” that form the foundation on which others may build. As such, members of the Alumni Association Council have chosen to recognize these individuals, who represent the entire Hamden Hall alumni community, and who exemplify the finest qualities that our school instills in its students.

To submit a nomination for an award, email the name of the proposed recipient and an explanation of why you are nominating the individual to: Jodi Amatulli at jamatulli@hamdenhall.org or send a note to her at the school. For information, call 203.752.2619.

Mark your calendars now! Hamden Hall’s Centennial Gala will be held Saturday, April 21, 2012, at the Omni Hotel in New Haven. Committee members for this black tie (optional) event are pictured clockwise: Hamden Hall parents Susan Lewin, Lisa Consiglio, Christine Fontana, and Laurie-Ann Letizia. Watch for more details online and in your invitation coming in the mail. This event marks the official kickoff of Hamden Hall’s 100th anniversary celebrations and will include the unveiling of the 100th Anniversary Coffee Table Book. (Read more about the book on the next page!)
Covering 100 years

A challenging assignment

I've always heard the story of the 17 boys who were the first enrollees at Hamden Hall a century ago. The black and white photo of those knickerbocker-clad lads is prevalent around campus and in school literature.

But when I started researching the school's history for a 100th anniversary coffee table book nearly two years ago, I had no idea just how well I would come to know those first students or the subsequent thousands who attended the school over the past 10 decades.

Take the Bingham family—not familiar with the name? There were seven Bingham boys, all of whom attended Hamden Hall between 1912 and 1924. Their father discovered the Incan city of Machu Picchu (their great-grandfather was jeweler Charles L. Tiffany of the illustrious Tiffany and Co.). There was even the Bingham Prize, presented at the end of the year to a student who excelled in geography.

As I began writing the book, I knew that the stories—the personal narratives—would best chronicle the nation's fourth country day school. After all, I had already spoken to so many graduates over the years in my role as alumni relations coordinator.

For example, I was aware that the building that now houses the Dolven Admissions Center was originally situated across the street. The home was donated to the school, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Stanley Taylor had it moved to where it now resides.

I remember being told that bit of Hamden Hall trivia by an alumna whom I had called regarding a reunion gathering. She reminisced with me and recalled the day (Dec. 2, 1949) that she stood enthralled as she and other classmates witnessed the moving of a homestead.

I love, too, a conversation I once had with an alum who told me she used to board a New Haven bus equipped with her rifle. After all, if you were in the Hamden Hall Rifle Club you had to have a rifle! We had a chuckle about that sort of sight nowadays and agreed it's a good thing the school doesn't sport that extracurricular activity any longer. Once I began writing the book, I actually called the former student to ensure that I had gotten the story straight!

And there were so many questions. When did we become the Hornets (1961)? Who were the first girls admitted to the once boys-only campus (there were 12 of them during the 1927-1928 school year)? What year was the Cabin razed (1972)?

Fortunately, many of the answers were easily obtainable, whether through past publications, documents, yearbooks, newspaper articles or personal accounts. In fact, at some points in the literary process, there was altogether too much information. I had about a 16,000-count word maximum, and choosing what to include (especially in current decades when the school simply exploded in terms of curriculum, clubs, sports, student population, and campus growth) and leave out was a constant challenge.

Hamden Hall's 100-year existence is truly remarkable and worthy of unlimited words and photographs. And I hope that the book makes as much of an impact on its reader as it did on its writer. One thing is for certain: the history of Hamden Hall is priceless—complete with a century of stories. Thus, one book can only touch upon the intricate threads that create the fabric of the school. Thanks to all of you who shared your recollections and for helping to preserve the legacy of Hamden Hall in words. Happy 100th anniversary to all!

—Dawn A. Miceli

100th Anniversary Coffee Table Book Editor and Writer
Surrounded by students dressed in white T-shirts bearing the green Hornet logo with the words “100 Years Strong,” Head of School Bob Izzo kicked off the new school year on Sept. 6 by also kicking off the school’s 100th anniversary. Among the festivities at the school-wide morning assembly was a special guest—Hamden Mayor Scott Jackson who read a proclamation for Hamden Hall. The occasion was marked by a rousing rendition of “Happy Birthday” and cupcakes for all (more than 600!). Student Government Secretary Vivian Vigliotti was touted during the assembly for helping design the T-shirts worn by students, faculty, and staff. In the afternoon, activities such as a pie-eating contest (of the blueberry variety!), human bingo, and sack races helped mark the special day on both campuses. Student Government President Noah Swimmer, who helped plan the event in coordination with S.G. members, Middle School Advocates, and Peer Leaders, called the day “an excellent success.” And while rain forced many activities inside, it didn’t dampen the excitement of the dunking booth at the Skiff Street Athletic Complex. Upper School students lined up in anticipation of faculty and students taking a cold-water plunge. With senior Austin French’s fierce arm, none of them had a chance! Administrators Bob Schroeder and John Greenawalt, along with Noah and fellow senior Darryl Best, took their turn in the tank!

Hamden Hall is pleased to announce that Marshal Gibson, past parent and longtime member of the Board of Trustees, has remembered Hamden Hall with a planned gift. In addition to his generosity to our school, Marshal, a tax attorney in New Haven, Conn., shares his time and talent with Hamden Hall, helping us to sustain the high standards of excellence our school embodies.

Marshal’s daughter, Laura Gibson, is a 2005 alumna of Hamden Hall. In 2009, she graduated Cum Laude in American Studies from American University in Washington, D.C., where she is now working on a doctorate in history. Laura earned a Master of Arts in Cinema Studies from New York University in May 2011. She interned in the curatorial department of the Paley Center for Media in New York City. During the summer of 2009, Laura interned at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum in Cleveland, Ohio. Marshal proudly notes that Laura is a Hamden Hall “lifer,” having attended our school from Kindergarten through Grade 12.

“As a trustee and past parent of Hamden Hall, I am honored to remember the school with a planned gift. As a tax attorney, I can personally and professionally attest to the ease of remembering the school in your estate planning. It can be as simple as calling your attorney and requesting a provision be made to your will or trust. Alternatively, you can make Hamden Hall the beneficiary of your IRA. A planned gift will prove beneficial to both you and the school, and it will enable you to make a more substantial gift to Hamden Hall. Again, the benefits to both parties are significant, from income tax deductions, to reductions in capital gains and estate tax reductions, to enhanced and predictable income, to financial support of the school. So, please join me and make your planned gift to Hamden Hall today.”

—Trustee Marshal Gibson

Hamden Hall Planned Giving Society
Planned Giving at Hamden Hall

Bequests
A stated bequest intention is the simplest and most direct way to ensure perpetual support. An outright bequest transfers specific property or assets to Hamden Hall at the time of your death. You may bequeath all or a portion of your estate to the school. Or, you may choose to direct that the residual value of your estate or a percentage of it go to Hamden Hall after the other terms of your estate plan have been fulfilled. A bequest to Hamden Hall will not affect your assets or cash flow during your lifetime. A bequest is also revocable, and again, it declares your intention to honor future Hamden Hall students by remembering them in your will or revocable trust. As the donor, you will benefit from your bequest or trust distribution to Hamden Hall as it will reduce the value of your estate for federal estate tax purposes and is exempt from state inheritance taxes. A bequest can identify a dollar amount or asset to Hamden Hall, or it can identify a percentage of the balance remaining in your estate after taxes and specific bequests have been paid. It can also be payable if an individual beneficiary is not able to inherit. When you speak to your attorney, ask about Specific, Residuary (percentage), and Contingent Bequests.

Charitable Gift Annuity
A Charitable Gift Annuity is an agreement between you and Hamden Hall. In return for your gift, Hamden Hall agrees to provide you, or you and your spouse, with a fixed income for your lifetime. Your gift will be invested with Hamden Hall’s endowment and will benefit from the expert management provided by Merrill Lynch. You will receive a fixed income for your lifetime while receiving a substantial tax reduction and greatly reducing capital gains tax liability. The income is paid out as part regular income and part capital gains. With reduced capital gains tax, this combination can mean significant savings for many donors. At the death of the last beneficiary, the gift principal creates a permanent endowment fund for Hamden Hall.

Deferred Gift Annuity
A Charitable Gift Annuity (CGA) is a life income agreement that allows an individual to defer income for a period of years and still qualify for an immediate tax deduction. This type of gift is appropriate for donors who are still in the financial building years of their careers and are seeking immediate tax relief. In exchange for a transfer of assets to the School, Hamden Hall contracts to provide an annual annuity payment to the donor, commencing at a future date. The donor receives an immediate tax reduction and greatly reduces capital gains tax liability on the assets used to fund the gift. Income from the gift is deferred until such time as the donor is in a more favorable tax bracket. As with the CGA, the income is paid out as part regular income and part capital gains, and the donor receives a tax savings from the reduced capital gains tax. At the death of the last income beneficiary, the gift principal creates a permanent endowment fund for Hamden Hall.

Charitable Remainder Trusts
A Charity Remainder Annuity Trust and a Charitable Remainder Unitrust are two similar, yet different, gift plans by which you may secure for yourself and/or your spouse an income for life or for a specified term of years while concurrently making a significant gift to Hamden Hall. In each case, your gift to Hamden Hall is placed in trust. With a Charitable Remainder Trust, you will receive an annual income based upon a fixed percentage of the trust’s initial value. With a Charitable Remainder Unitrust, you will receive an annual income based upon a fixed percentage of the trust’s current value. In each case, you may select your own trustee. At the termination of either trust, the final principal creates a permanent endowment fund for Hamden Hall.

Gifts of Life Insurance
Valuable items accumulated at one point in life may not continue to hold their importance to a donor as circumstances may change. A gift of a life insurance policy to Hamden Hall may prove a benefit to a donor by simplifying estate planning and reducing estate taxes.

Gifts of Real Estate or Personal Property
Gifts of valuable personal property or real estate, such as a second home, require careful planning. The professionals associated with Hamden Hall would be pleased to discuss benefits to you and to Hamden Hall of such gifts.

For more information, please contact the Development Office at 203.752.2616 or visit www.hamdenhall.org and click on Support. Thank you for remembering Hamden Hall!
With a bearded dragon perched in the background and two swimming turtles hovering nearby, the newly renovated Bayer Family Lower School Science Center was unveiled in September during the Donor Appreciation Reception that also honored legendary faculty member Katharine Harris.

Head of School Bob Izzo reminded those in attendance that the space now occupied by aquariums and lab equipment was formerly the workout room.

“Thanks to the generosity of Hamden Hall’s Bayer family, this room is now a place of wonderment, experimentation, and learning,” said Bob.

Glenn Bayer, whose son Zachary is a junior, noted that the room was dedicated to his wife Joanne’s grandmother, Irene Eisenberg, in honor of her 101st birthday. “She is a woman who values education,” he said.

Earlier in the evening, Kathie Harris and her husband, Jon, were honored for their nearly four decades of service and commitment to the school.

The Katharine and Jon Harris Music Room was dedicated in honor of Kathie’s
33-year career at Hamden Hall that propelled her into the limelight as the legendary Lower School music teacher and director.

Despite her official retirement in 2007, Kathie has remained on staff as part of the Admissions team and just recently taught the school’s original alma mater to Lower School students as part of the centennial celebrations that are taking place this school year.

Kathie quipped that prior to the school having a sound system, Jon often gave her microphones for Mother’s Day and noted that her sister Carol Watson, who was also in attendance, helped create costumes for the sixth-grade plays she produced.

The new Harris Music Room contains a professional keyboard lab that features 17 pianos, 12 of which were provided via the generosity of the Parents’ Association.

A Farewell Message from Hank Mixsell

Val Migliore ‘heads’ the class!

Val Migliore has answered her “call” to education in a most gratifying way. This fall, after a 21-year career at Hamden Hall, Val took over the head’s job at St. Andrew’s Episcopal School in Newport News, Va. St. Andrew’s, a PreKindergarten through Grade 5 school founded in 1946, is a mission outreach of St. Andrew’s Episcopal Church.

“I have wanted to be part of the bigger picture of education for a while,” said Val, who went back to school to earn her administrative certification. “I couldn’t have been more excited when I was selected to head St. Andrew’s. It’s a wonderful school!”

In 1990, Val started at Hamden Hall in PreKindergarten as an assistant to Kathie Harris. At the end of that year, she left to teach English at her former school, but returned to Hamden Hall in 1992 to teach Kindergarten.

“I was thrilled to return to Hamden Hall as a full-time teacher,” recalled Val, who moved into the Pre-K slot the following year.

“I spent 15 years teaching Pre-K and loved every minute of it,” said Val. “PreKindergarten is where children begin to answer two essential questions: Who am I and how do I fit in the world? If they are guided into developing a positive self-image, they won’t be distracted from the learning that’s taking place in the classroom. They won’t be distracted by wondering if they have friends, or if they belong. They will know they do. This is a lifelong process, as we all know.”

Val said that leaving Hamden Hall after two decades was a difficult but necessary thing for her to do.

“I love education, and I was blessed during my years at Hamden Hall because I was given... (See next page)
Multitasking with Motherly Love: Maureen Forte

It’s tough to get a solid job description out of Maureen Forte for the position she held at the school for nearly a quarter-century. Apparently, it all depended on the time of year; like coordinating back-to-school night in September, assembling grades in November, January, April, and June, or organizing pictures for the Senior Bulletin Board at graduation time.

Coinciding with the end of this past school year was a brand new task for Maureen—training a new administrative assistant for the Director of Middle and Upper School and the Academic Dean. Maureen retired after 24 years at Hamden Hall.

“My husband is already retired, and we’d like to do some traveling together,” explained Maureen of her decision. “We’re thinking about maybe a cruise to the Greek Islands.”

But in June, with prom and 2011 Commencement on the calendar, Maureen’s thoughts of Grecian sands remained in the distance. There was a prom to plan and college lists to pull together and the myriad of other daily tasks that filled Maureen’s in-box.

“It was almost like being an office manager,” said Maureen. “I always filled in for people and really, you never knew what was going to come up. Each day was a little different. You’re always looking ahead in that office.”

Looking back, Maureen recalled her beginning days at Hamden Hall in 1988, when she signed on to be the administrative assistant in Admissions. At the time, there was no academic dean or director of Upper and Middle Schools. But two years later, with those posts filled by Sally Mixsell and Bob Schroeder, respectively, Maureen began her storied tenure.

finally became a Spanish-only teacher in seventh- and eighth-grade, where I remained for my tenure at the school.

Under former Middle School Dean Sue Gonnelly’s leadership, the Middle School grew and developed into a coherent, viable division of Hamden Hall, which Brian Christman has built upon since he took over a few years ago. As has happened universally, interest and enrollment in Spanish has blossomed in the last decade, so my classes increased from the original three to five in recent years. The Foreign Language Department was the first to institute a revolving chair position, so I served in that capacity for a few years, while taking over Dale Loundsbury’s job as AV director and official videographer of school events. For a few years, I helped Bob Schroeder coach girls’ A soccer and more recently, helped to increase the use of technology, in particular the use of SMARTBoards. I am very proud of how far Lorri Carroll and the Technology Committee have brought the school into the 21st century.

Three years ago, Sally—who served as academic dean and curriculum coordinator in her last years at Hamden Hall and later developed a consulting firm for independent schools, EDUinnovations—accepted the call to become the first alumna head of Stoneleigh-Burnham School, a girls’ boarding and day school in Greenfield, Mass. At that point, we decided that I would continue to live here, and we would see each other as often as we could. Since Sally had previously spent an entire year as a Klingenstein Fellow at Columbia Teachers College and had commuted to New York for another two years after that, we knew what we were getting into. Fortunately for me, Stoneleigh needed a middle school Spanish teacher and assistant to their technology director, and I was offered the position.

While I was sad to leave Hamden Hall, I looked forward with excitement to a new chapter of my life with Sally at SBS. I took with me wonderful memories of hundreds of great students, caring and professional colleagues, and friendships that will last a lifetime. Thank you, Hamden Hall, for including me as a member of your family all these years.

A  Farewell
Message from
Hank Mixsell

Val Migliore ‘heads’ the class

“Intersession,” a mini-vacation care program. In 2007, Head of School Bob Izzo offered Val the opportunity to direct Hamden Hall’s Summer School. “The summer school was the perfect opportunity for me to develop the skills necessary to be where I am today,” said Val. “The Summer Academy has grown in size, offerings, and staff, and I am very proud of where it is today. These two experiences, coupled with the collaborative nature of Hamden Hall’s culture, gave me tools necessary to understand and apply the systems that make schools successful.”

As much as Val misses Hamden Hall, she notes that her move to Virginia puts her closer to her family—especially her grandchildren. Val and her husband, Dan, have three children. Son David is an attorney. Their daughter, Emily (Hamden Hall Class of 1994), is married with two children, Olivia, 4, and Annie, 19 months. Emily is a special education teacher at the Saratoga School in Virginia. Their son, Christopher, is a teacher and coach at the Bullis School in Maryland.

“Education is woven in the fabric of our family,” said Val, adding that her husband has always been supportive of her ambitions, shares her love of education, and has a good understanding of her “calling.”
Multitasking with Motherly Love: Maureen Forte

One of her favorite moments under the pines was when the graduating class of 1994 dedicated its yearbook to her. “She is always there to listen and readily offers a ‘shoulder to cry on,’” reads the yearbook dedication. Similar sentiments were expressed when Maureen shared the 2011 Yearbook dedication with Bob Schroeder.

Academic Dean Sue Gonnelly readily acknowledged Maureen’s caring nature and incredible work ethic.

“Maureen was always a step ahead of everyone!” said Sue. “And she could literally finish my sentences for me. I mean, sometimes I sneezed and Maureen finished it for me.”

Although Maureen is officially gone (albeit some recent sightings, as she fills in when asked!), she will never be forgotten.

“She is greatly missed,” maintained Sue. “She was always there when needed, and she readily did whatever was asked of her, whether it was organizing the prom, acquiring gifts for the auction, recording daily attendance, or making appointments.”

Sue noted that long after the official day was done, Maureen was always on the phone at home, available to both students and faculty.

“They would tell me I was like a mother to them,” said Maureen. And that sat just fine with Maureen.

With no children of her own, Maureen said she has always thought of Hamden Hall’s students as her own—especially the Middle and Upper Schoolers. On campus, Maureen had supported them via her attendance at sporting events and theatrical productions, which she dubbed, by the way, as “quite professional.” Off campus, she attended those special occasions that mark the lives of many alumni, including weddings, showers, and other milestone events. “They all send me pictures, and it’s really nice,” she revealed.

Retirement hasn’t stopped the invitations from coming. And that’s a blessing, said Maureen, who has heartstring tugs for the Hamden Hall family for whom she has cared for all these years. “I will always love it here,” she said simply. “It will always be home.”

Linda Tirozzi puts her stamp on the Business Office

“Linda was the first person that I hired,” recalled Bob, then business manager. “And from the very beginning, she gained my trust as a valued member of the staff and someone who I could always rely on. Her integrity is without question. Her work ethic was exceptional, and her interaction with staff, students, parents, and the public was always highly professional.”

Benny Arpine, Hamden Hall’s resource manager, concurs that Linda was tops! “She was always dedicated. She always came in early and stayed late and did whatever it took to get her job done,” said Benny.

Everyone who knows Linda wishes her the best in her retirement. Linda and her husband, Nick, have moved to Rotonda West, Fla., where Linda notes they have plenty of room for guests, including her family.

Linda and Nick have two daughters. Their daughter, Gina, and her husband, Greg, live in Hamden with 8-year-old twins, Kaitlyn and Gregory. Linda and Nick’s daughter, Nicole, and her husband, Fred, live in Atlanta with their daughter, Ashley, 12.

Linda says that although she is looking forward to her new life of leisure, she may also dabble in a “little” part-time work. Any guesses what she has in mind? Something in a business office, of course!

—Jodi Amatulli
After nearly 30 years of driving buses for Hamden Hall, Christel Maturo softly put the brakes on her career in May 2011.

“I’ve got a lot of miles under my wheels,” quipped Christel, who turns 72 on Dec. 9.

“But I’ve enjoyed driving for Hamden Hall. The school was like a family.”

In many ways, it was her home away from home. Christel, who was widowed when she was hired as the school’s lone part-time bus driver in 1982, had her two children here from Middle School through graduation.

Christel and her late husband, Angelo, have a daughter, Angelina Maturo Scully, who graduated from Hamden Hall in 1987, and a son, Mario, a 1988 Hamden Hall alumnus.

Angelina and her husband, Dale, live in Wallingford with their two children, Tyler, 13, and Serena, 10. Mario and his wife, Tamara, live in San Francisco with their two daughters, Quinn, 2, and Reese, 1.

Over the nearly three decades Christel worked at Hamden Hall, she got to know hundreds of students and their parents, all by first name. She drove students to field trips, to games, and eventually on commuter school routes that now extend from the Shoreline to Woodbridge to Fairfield County.

Of all the buses that Christel manned, she said her favorite was The Green Hornet, so named for the animated hornet painted on the side. “That bus was my baby,” said Christel. “I clocked more than 150,000 miles on it!”

Although Christel has a long list of driving memories, she notes two that stand out. One involved a snowstorm in Litchfield County after an ice hockey game. The police took Christel off the road, sending her and the team to a nearby gym for an emergency “sleepover”—on wrestling mats, sans pillows, and blankets.

Then there was the time that football coach Jim Bean, disappointed in his team’s performance, directed Christel to keep her foot on the brake as the players pushed the bus back home—up a hill! “Nowadays,” Christel laughed, “they would lock us up and throw away the key!”

Christel, who did a lot more than drive buses, always enjoyed the variety of her work. After Sonny Coughlin retired, she took over transportation, coordinating bus schedules, keeping the vehicles in tip-top shape, and overseeing the drivers.

In her retirement, Christel plans to spend more time with her family, her horses, and dogs. Although a back injury from a saddle fall in 1995 prevented Christel from riding or driving for several months, Christel happily returned to both.

“I love horses,” she said. “They are magnificent creatures who ask very little and give everything.” Christel is a volunteer deputy rider for the state’s Department of Environmental Protection.

As for saying good-bye to Hamden Hall, Christel’s friendships will keep her connected.

“I know many students who were here from Pre-K through graduation,” she said. “And I got to know them on a personal level, and their parents were always wonderful. I used to tell the parents that when I’m behind the wheel, I’ve got the future in my hands—their precious cargo and mine.”

Hamden Hall officially welcomed new members to our faculty at a reception in September.

Megan Borelli joins the Science Department as a biology teacher. Many of you know Megan as our Girls’ Varsity Basketball coach. Megan earned both her B.S. and M.S. degrees in biology from Quinnipiac University.

Karen Swain is teaching eighth-grade English at Hamden Hall. Karen also teaches many online courses for several area universities. She received her J.D. from UConn Law School and her B.A. in English and political science from UConn. Karen’s husband, Kevin Swain 1992, attended Hamden Hall, and her father-in-law is Trustee Emeritus Terry Swain.

Sara White is our new Middle School Spanish teacher. Sara taught at Fordham University for a number of years. Prior to teaching at Fordham, Sara spent several years teaching and coaching at the Westminster School in Simsbury, Conn. She is a graduate of Dickinson College and earned her master’s from Miami University.

Marianne Xu is teaching French and Mandarin. Marianne is a recent graduate from Wellesley College with a B.A. in French Language & Literature.

While not technically a new face at Hamden Hall, Monica Lyons 1994 is in a new position as kindergarten teacher (previously a kindergarten assistant). Monica has a B.A. in communication from Muhlenberg College and is earning a master’s in early childhood education at SCSU.

David Doyle has been appointed our new athletic director. David comes to us from Morristown-Beard School in Morristown, N.J., where he served as athletic director for the last several years. He also has independent school teaching and coaching experience, as well as experience in the business and financial world. David is a graduate of Bryant University and he earned a master’s in athletic administration from Plymouth State University. David and his family are excited to be moving back to New England and closer to family.

New in Admissions is Daria Gladstone, admissions associate. Daria earned a B.A. in child development and psychology from San Francisco State University. Admissions also welcomes Jennifer Luty, administrative assistant. Jennifer graduated from the Quinnipiac University Honors Program. Susan Pavano is the new administrative assistant in the Middle and Upper School office. Susan is a graduate of Bryant University.
Frank Gasparro Ph.D. and his colleague, Dan Zibello, who retired from the school in 2006, understand that the subject of chemistry doesn’t always come easy for students. In fact, the teaching duo agrees that the study of chemistry may be one of the most difficult challenges students might face. To help facilitate the learning process, Frank and Dan have co-authored a 200-page lab manual, IT’S A CHEMICAL WORLD Matter and Energy. The 10th-grade manual is the culmination of many years of work by both men and contains easy tear-out pages for educators to utilize. Complimentary copies are being sent to area high school chemistry teachers.

Frank said he views the manual as a guide to help students in their learning process—understanding the basic chemical concepts, learning to be careful observers, and becoming analytical thinkers who can interpret data. “Knowledge is power,” maintains Frank, quoting Francis Bacon. “And acquiring the skills to understand chemistry will allow students to emerge from the course with a new perspective on the world—the chemical world!” Frank aptly notes.

Excerpt from The Foreword

Doc Gasparro has aptly built upon a Chemistry curriculum developed specifically for Hamden Hall students over many years. I am personally gratified by his efforts to expand and improve the laboratory aspects of this course and am honored to be a part of it all.

But all the books and manuals are of little impact without a knowledgeable guide to highlight the grand sights along the way and to instill an appreciation of what you are seeing. Doc is that guide. I had the pleasure of teaching with him during the transition year of my retirement. I know from that experience that you are in good hands. And so is Hamden Hall Chemistry!

No one is born knowing how to walk and talk, or dance, or play sports. Like Chemistry, these take effort, practice, and persistence. Your growth over this year will be amazing if you work the program. In facing the many challenges of Chemistry, you might need help, tutorials, encouragement, or maybe a little jump-start. Doc’s the one who wants to see you succeed, the one who will give life and meaning to the words in this manual, the one you should approach for help. Keep at it and you will be amazed at what you can accomplish! Good luck along the way.

Hamden Hall Chemistry Teacher 1971-2005

Sarah Ludwig, Hamden Hall’s academic technology coordinator, has penned a guide to help teenagers get more than books out of the library!

Sarah’s book, Starting from Scratch: Building a Teen Library Program, was published in June 2011 by ABC-CLIO, an award-winning publisher of reference, scholarly, and professional development titles. The book covers the full scope of providing excellent and innovative library services to teens, including outreach, collection development, budgeting, professional development, and programming. The book is part of ABC-CLIO’s Professional Guides for Young Adult Librarians series.

At Hamden Hall, Sarah teaches Lower School technology classes; works with faculty to integrate technology into their curriculum; trains teachers to use the latest educational technology; and introduces new technology to Middle and Upper School students, with a focus on information and digital literacy skills.

Sarah received her master’s degree in library science from Simmons College and has worked both as an independent school library director and as a department head in a public library. She writes regularly for the Young Adult Library Services Association blog and Voice of Youth Advocates magazine, and has given presentations on teen library services both at conferences and online.

Sarah lives in North Haven with her husband, Robin, and their daughter, Evie, 3, who is attending Hamden Hall’s Preschool program.

A copy of Sarah’s book is available at Hamden Hall’s Swain Library, and additional copies can be obtained on Amazon. To learn more about Sarah’s research, look for updates on our website, on Facebook, and Twitter.
Terry Swain remembers Hamden Hall

In his more than 30 years at Hamden Hall—as a parent, past parent, and trustee—Terry Swain has seen a lot of changes. The physical plant and the school’s “financials” are among the most radical—both vastly improved from the late 1970s when Terry’s oldest child, Lisa, joined the student body as a freshman.

But the one thing that hasn’t changed, Terry warmly notes, are the people who comprise Hamden Hall. “The faculty and staff are extraordinary,” he said. “They are dedicated to the school and truly care about the students.”

Terry recalls one story to illustrate his point. It was during the blizzard of 1978 that shut down the state. Terry was 300 miles away on business and his wife, Sheila, was concerned. But her fears were soon calmed when Dr. Barbara Beitch spotted Lisa and three other students waiting for a school bus that would never arrive.

“Dr. Beitch fought her way through that blizzard and delivered the four girls safely home, dropping each one off at her front door. It’s that kind of dedication that makes Hamden Hall so different—a very special place,” Terry said.

To show his appreciation for Hamden Hall and at the same time honor his parents, Charles and Ellen Swain, Terry made a leadership gift to the school in 1982 for the Swain Library.

“My parents, who were living at the time of the groundbreaking, loved children, and I thought the gift was a meaningful way to honor them,” recalled Terry.

In June, after three decades of volunteer service to Hamden Hall, Terry “retired” from the Board of Trustees as a trustee emeritus. Yet, he still has a place in his heart for Hamden Hall. He is teaming up with John Edwards, a fellow trustee emeritus, and Head of School Bob Izzo, to recognize the dedication and contributions of former trustees.

“As Hamden Hall celebrates its 100th anniversary, it is appropriate that we acknowledge the former trustees who helped lay the foundation for what you see today at the school,” said Terry.

Terry credits many people in the Hamden Hall community for the progress the school has made over the years. He notes that it was a proud day for the entire school community when ground was broken for the Beckerman Athletic Center in the summer of 2008. Terry points to the leadership of Bob Izzo and to the entire faculty and staff for their contributions to that project.

Now, with a little more time on his hands, Terry says he can turn his attention to his number one priority: his family. Terry and Sheila have three children and four grandchildren—“the joy” of their lives.

Lisa (HH 1981) and her husband, Ed Woodfield, who live in New Jersey, have two children. Bryan is a junior at the University of North Carolina. Terry took a memorable road trip with Bryan back to school this summer and is still talking about it! Bryan’s sister, Emily, is a freshman in high school.

Daughter Leslie, and her husband, Dan Carmody, live in Wallingford.

Terry’s son, Kevin, who attended Hamden Hall for 11 years, and his wife, Karen, live in Hamden. They have two daughters, Maya, 4, and Alexa, 2.

“I finally know about ‘the grand’ in grandchildren,” quipped Terry, adding that he now has the time to look forward to babysitting—and that includes changing diapers!

Jim McKinster 1950 names Hamden Hall as beneficiary

In October 2010, Jim McKinster returned “home” to Hamden Hall for his 60th class reunion. It was a moving experience, and being back on campus reminded Jim of some teachable moments.

He recalled, for example, Latin class with the dynamic Beatrice “B.B.” Westerfield. “I didn’t even like Latin when I first started taking it,” Jim recalled, “but I loved Mrs. Westerfield, and I ended up loving Latin, too! Jim recalled his teacher’s famous words of wisdom: “There is no thrill like the academic thrill.”

“Her words stuck with me,” said Jim. “Now, years later, I feel myself welling up just thinking about her influence and my years under the pines.”

After Hamden Hall, Jim earned a degree in industrial engineering at Yale University. He spent the next 26 years in the Navy as a nuclear engineer, retiring as Capt. McKinster! After the Navy, Jim worked in the commercial nuclear power industry in engineering management.

When reflecting on his life, Jim credits much of his success to the foundation of lifelong learning that he acquired at Hamden Hall. For that reason, Jim has remembered Hamden Hall in his estate planning.

He notes it was a very simple process. In fact, all Jim had to do was go online and change the beneficiary of his IRAs. Then he called Hamden Hall’s Development Office, obtaining the school’s address and tax ID number. “There was no need to call an attorney or get anyone else involved,” he said. “Additionally, every year I can make a cash gift to the school.” Jim explained that in order to avoid a tax penalty, he needs to make an annual mandatory distribution of cash from his IRAs.

“I now have set up a yearly disbursement of funds to Hamden Hall,” said Jim. “That way I can contribute to the school instead of paying taxes on the money. For me, it’s a win-win!”

Hamden Hall thanks Jim for his generosity to our school. His gift will benefit our school’s endowment, helping to ensure the future of Hamden Hall.
When Bruce Lehman passed away in May 2011 at 85, the Hamden Hall community lost a dedicated “face” in our community. Bruce, whose son Michael graduated from Hamden Hall in 1980 and sons Jim and Steve attended the school, was a force behind the design and printing of FACES, Hamden Hall’s literary magazine.

According to Betty Lou Blumberg, former English teacher and FACES advisor during her 30-year tenure at Hamden Hall, Bruce generously shared his time and talent with the students who wrote and designed the book.

Bruce was an owner and vice-president of Lehman Brothers Inc., a family printing and engraving business where he worked for nearly 60 years until his retirement.

While his son Michael was a Hamden Hall student and for many years after his graduation, Bruce would devote countless hours advising the staff of FACES as to how to creatively combine art elements with type to produce a well-designed book. Additionally, said Betty Lou, Bruce gave the school a huge financial break on the printing, a gift that made the production of FACES possible.

“We had a small budget, and most of the money we had was from bake sales and raffles—lots and lots of them!” recalled Betty Lou. “So when it was time to print FACES, Bruce would ask, how much money did you raise?”

Betty Lou said that no matter what the real cost of printing the publication was, Bruce would charge the students only the amount of money their fundraising had generated.

“Bruce was a generous man in many different ways,” said Betty Lou. “And to this day, the students still remember his kindness.”

Bruce’s wife, Lois, recalled that her husband was always happy to do whatever he could do to support the students.

“Both Bruce and I were very happy with Hamden Hall,” said Lois, noting that their sons all enjoyed a positive experience at the school. “We always felt that the teachers were so nurturing and the atmosphere so wonderful. So even after Michael graduated in 1980, Bruce kept up his relationship with Hamden Hall and FACES.”

Lois noted that Bruce was always very proud of Lehman Brothers, which was known for printing the White House stationary, and that he enjoyed a lifelong commitment to the business.

“He was very happy to have the students come in and see how the business was run and learn its operations. He was such a good guy, a very happy man,” said Lois. “He loved FACES and always read it.”

The netted sticks were flying in full force at the 2nd Annual Hamden Hall Boys’ Lacrosse Varsity Alumni Game. The event, which drew sidelines of energetic fans, unfolded June 18 at the Skiff Street Athletic Complex. Coach A.J. Raccio, organizer of the yearly tradition, reports that although the alumni proved victorious, his “younger” players were thrilled with the opportunity to compete. A.J. extends a nod to everyone who came out and supported the event—parents, past parents, and faculty included. He notes special thanks to Dr. Michael Kim and his wife, Carol, parents of Austen Kim 2012, for providing pizza after the game.

Under the Pines
Joe Linta at Hamden Hall’s George “Sonny” Coughlin Field.

Hornets score a touchdown with new football coach

Joe Linta is a self-proclaimed salesman. He has sold, of all things, the obligatory vacuum cleaner back in the day. These days, his product hits even closer to home.

“As a football agent, there’s no product to sell,” he states. “I’m the product.”

And now, with his new position at Hamden Hall as the varsity football coach, he continues to peddle his wares: those personal ideologies he hopes his players will embrace. Core beliefs like developing young men into leaders who have respect and dignity, teaching youth about accountability, and encouraging players to have fun with the pigskin must be disseminated with salesman-like assurance and credibility to ensure positive team results.

“I have always been a salesman of sorts, whether it was the vacuum cleaners I once sold, trading stocks as a retail stock broker, or when I now go to Boston College to talk to a player about retaining me as his agent,” said Joe, who founded his company, JL Sports, in 1991.

In 1993, Joe signed his first big-name player, Will Shields, formerly of the Kansas City Chiefs—the first of many to be impressed with the Linta sales pitch. These days, Joe Flacco of the Baltimore Ravens, Brian Hoyer of the New England Patriots, and Willie Colon of the Pittsburgh Steelers are faithful patrons, seemingly happy to be among the throng of big payday players in the Linta lineup.

But it’s his newest roster that’s garnering the attention during this 2011 football season. National eyes turned Hamden Hall’s way once the announcement of Joe’s arrival was made just a few weeks shy of summer. Apparently, it’s not every day that an NFL agent takes on a side gig coaching high school football.

“He’s the right guy for our program,” said Head of School Bob Izzo. “His knowledge of the game of football speaks for itself. I have already observed the easy way in which he interacts with student-athletes.”

Senior running back Curtis Antrum said he was excited to meet his new coach, having heard many things about him. “When I met him, he lived up to and exceeded all my expectations. He has so much to offer us as a team. He’s very approachable,” said Curtis.

Some of Joe’s first tangible alterations to the program include an enhanced game schedule (10 vs. eight games; one against St. Paul Catholic High School in Bristol, a member of the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference, the day before Thanksgiving) and additional night games.

Joe also brought two new players with him: his sons! The 51-year-old has a sophomore, Nick, and a freshman, TJ, both of whom now suit up for Hamden Hall.

Joe and his wife, Kathleen, married in 1984 (the couple celebrated their 25th anniversary in November 2010) and reside in Branford.

“Last year I went to a Hamden Hall game with my son. From there, we visited the school and liked both the facilities and the academic program,” said Joe of his decision to both coach and enroll his children at Hamden Hall.

Joe’s own background includes an Ivy League education. As the 1978 valedictorian at his high school in Pittsburgh, Joe went east to Yale University to study and play ball.

He majored in political science and administrative science and worked hard as a defensive tackle for the Bulldogs. As a result, Yale produced three Ivy League Championship teams during Joe’s tenure at the school.

His prowess on the field translated onto the sidelines as well. Joe assisted legendary Yale coach Carm Cozza for eight years and was an assistant coach for the University of New Haven.

“Carm Cozza was by far the biggest influence on my life,” said Joe. “He taught me about dignity and respect.”

Lessons that now Joe carries with him into the Hornets’ stadium. Joe said he has no tolerance for swearing or disrespect, and he is all about accountability on and off the field.

“Bad behavior starts somewhere, and these bad habits are precursors to it. We seem to have this mentality these days of ‘what’s the big deal’ and I don’t agree with it,” Joe maintained.

For Curtis and his teammates, the expectations are clear. “Coach Linta expects the best out of us no matter what we do and is able to bring it out of our team with ease,” explained Curtis. “He often teaches us about integrity because he wants us to be able to trust him and our fellow teammates.”

Then there’s the actual game play. Joe runs an NFL-style offense and pressure defense that captivates audiences and showcases the players’ skills.

“We want to make Hamden Hall a stop for college recruiters and push to get our kids invited to the area All-Star games,” he said.

“But you have to push the envelope—you have to sell the vacuums!”

Frank Gasparro dedicates new scoreboard to his family

For most folks around campus, Frank Gasparro is known as a science teacher. But in May, he played host at the dedication of the new Gasparro Family Baseball Scoreboard at the Skiff Street Athletic Complex. And in an emotional nod to his parents, Frank J. and Anna T. Gasparro, Frank generously donated the funds for the new scoreboard, and he asked a bevy of diamond lovers to help him celebrate the dedication. Speakers included members of the school community who coached or played baseball: Skip Falcone, Terry Deck, Joe Fontana, and Bob Schroeder, who read a moving letter from Bud Kohler who was unable to attend.

Frank's son, Marco Gasparro 2011, was among the student players and well-wishers. And Frank's oldest son, Alessandro, HH Class of 2008, who was away at the University of Michigan, was there in spirit. Of course, what's a baseball event without some peanuts and Cracker Jacks? Not to worry! Frank (aka “Doc”) had ordered them up, along with a bunch of Ball Park Franks! Hamden Hall thanks Frank and his wife, Dr. Paula Bevilacqua, for their generosity to our school and for sharing their passion of the game. So, let’s play ball!

There were a lot of “firsts” celebrated at 2011 Reunion and Homecoming on Oct. 21 and 22. The inaugural 5K Trail Race saw early birds of all ages running through the scenic woods around the Beckerman Athletic Center (twice!). And the Class of 1991, spirited by the leadership of John Cunneen and Matt Small, raised a milestone class gift of more than $11,000 to honor the memory of classmate Lisa Deconinck. A scholarship has been established in Lisa’s name, a tribute to the Class of 1991’s warmth and generosity.

John was recognized by Head of School Bob Izzo at Friday evening’s reunion reception held at the center. Bob thanked John for his tireless efforts to help our school’s fundraising and for his involvement in alumni affairs. John was presented with a framed watercolor of Hamden Hall with a plaque inscribed with his name.

The reunion weekend festivities began for a medley of classes Friday morning with a coffee in Admissions. The Class of 1961, celebrating its 50th year, greeted Hamden Hallers from other milestone classes. These included folks from 1951 marking their 60th, 1956 noting their 55th, and others in between, such as Hudas Liff Schwartz 1943 who was accompanied by her daughter Wendy Liff Flynn 1973. Our special guests enjoyed VIP seating at the Upper School.
Homecoming Assembly before sharing memories (and lunch!) in the Swain Library. Faculty Gina D’Angelo and Evelyn Russo enhanced the noontime event by updating alumni on what’s happening in Hamden Hall classrooms today.

Later Friday afternoon, alumni cheered on the Varsity Girls’ Volleyball team at the athletic center. The evening’s reception garnered attendance by alumni from all decades marking special class celebrations in 2011, from 2006 on down!

On Saturday morning, the fun continued with the trail race, followed by a roster of games played out on the fields of the Skiff Street Athletic Complex throughout the day and into early evening. Enjoy the photographs highlighting the weekend!

Alex Wang 2006 joins Peace Corps

Alex Wang 2006 is directing a clean water project, a health clinic project, and a few food projects for his community in El Salvador, where he is a Peace Corps volunteer. Alex, a 2010 graduate of Ursinus College, joined the Peace Corps in January 2011. Immediately following his graduation from Ursinus, Alex spent six months in Europe, travelling through most of the Balkan states, Greece, France, Germany, and Spain. During the same period of time, he worked in a molecular laboratory in the University of Athens, Greece, for three months. After learning that the Peace Corps would send him to a Spanish speaking country in Central America, Alex decided to go to Spain to prepare his Spanish before his Peace Corps service.

In Spain, Alex had the opportunity of working with Dr. Gabriel Capella of the Catalan Institute of Oncology in Barcelona for three months. He returned from Europe right before Christmas of 2010 and left for the Peace Corps a month later. The work Alex contributed to at the Catalan Institute was recently submitted for publication. If published, this will mark the third peer-reviewed scientific publication that he has co-authored.

According to Alex’s parents (he has no email in the mountains!), Alex became attracted to serving in the Peace Corps during his junior year in college. That calling became stronger after spending six months in Mexico during his senior year. The Wang family traveled extensively when Alex was young, and the idea of living in another country and mastering another foreign language was always appealing to him. He is now settled in El Salvador and living with his remote and very poor rural community on a mountaintop, called El Rebelde. Alex’s goal is to help the community, and he is working diligently on multiple projects. He is teaching English to the teachers at his local school; raising funds to build and stock a local clinic; working on a clean water project; helping to establish some food projects to enable residents to change their diet habits; and he is helping to initiate a self-sustainable way to provide basic essential health care. According to Alex’s parents, Alex hikes down the mountain every week or so and checks his email—if it’s working! He’d love some messages at: hanxiang.wang@gmail.com.
Hamden Hall hosted its 19th Annual Golf & Tennis Tournament on June 20. While golfers played the immaculate 18-hole course at the New Haven Country Club, tennis players enjoyed the James R. Maggart Tennis Courts at the Skiff Street Athletic Complex. Hamden Hall thanks all those who participated in the annual event and thanks the sponsors for their support, especially Dave McDermott of McDermott Lexus for his generosity as our lead sponsor. A special congratulations to Albert DeLucia of North Haven for winning the 2011 Lexus Champions for Charity Raffle. Albert and a guest will enjoy a golfer’s dream come true at Pebble Beach Golf Links, Spyglass Hill Golf Course, and The Links at Spanish Bay Dec. 7-11. Hamden Hall Trustee Carl Porto Sr. sold the winning ticket!

The 70 students who received diplomas on June 10 also got some words of wisdom from the father of classmate Katharine Walker.

“Your parents and the Hamden Hall faculty have done their parts, but now your future rests in your hands,” said the Hon. Judge John Mercer Walker Jr. of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. “You’ve already made an important choice in selecting college. This is the beginning of your life on your terms.”

Judge Walker, who delivered the keynote at Hamden Hall’s 99th Commencement Exercises, was among a host of speakers at the late afternoon ceremony held in the school’s Whitney Avenue courtyard.

Judge Walker, who was introduced by his daughter, surprised the graduates with a congratulatory letter from his cousin, President George H.W. Bush, who suggested that each graduate “be a doer and not a critic.”

Class valedictorian Rachel Litvin, who spent 13 years at Hamden Hall, was introduced by Head of School Bob Izzo who noted that Rachel is “quite possibly the finest vocalist the school has ever had.”

Rachel, who is attending the University of Connecticut, asked her classmates to reflect on the question: “How can I be myself when I don’t know who I am?”

“I know we all have a vague knowledge of who we are and who we want to become, but these next four years will allow us to free ourselves and decide who we really are and what defines us,” she said.

Salutatorian Jared Bronen shared with his peers that when he joined the Hamden Hall community, his mother was undergoing treatment for cancer. “Despite my reserved tendencies and shy personality, I was welcomed into the community with open arms by teachers and students alike,” said Jared, who is attending Tufts University. “I soon became adapted to Hamden Hall life and found a group of friends, teachers, and administrators whom I could admire and trust.”

Tyler Bisson, Student Government president who is studying at James Madison University, welcomed guests by singing a few lines from the musical Rent. Tyler thanked Hamden Hall for “being a place where someone can be all they can be.”

Of the 70 graduates, 11 began their studies at Hamden Hall in PreKindergarten or Kindergarten. All of the 2011 graduates are in college, and we wish them the best of luck!
